

DIY Award Ribbons

Hi!
If you are new to me, Art with Jenny K., and my work, welcome!

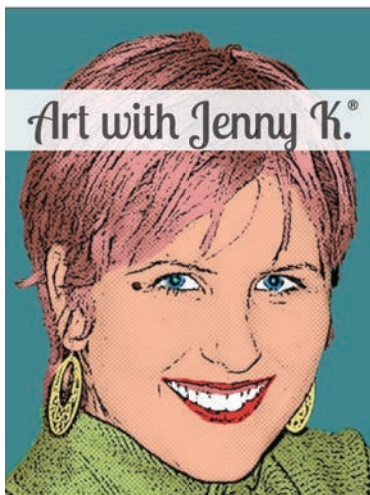

If you have been around for a while and know what I'm all about, welcome back—and thank you for supporting my efforts.

I am an art educator specializing in helping teachers, art teachers, and parents infuse creativity into their lessons.

While you are tirelessly supporting your children and students, I'm working (also tirelessly) to support YOU!

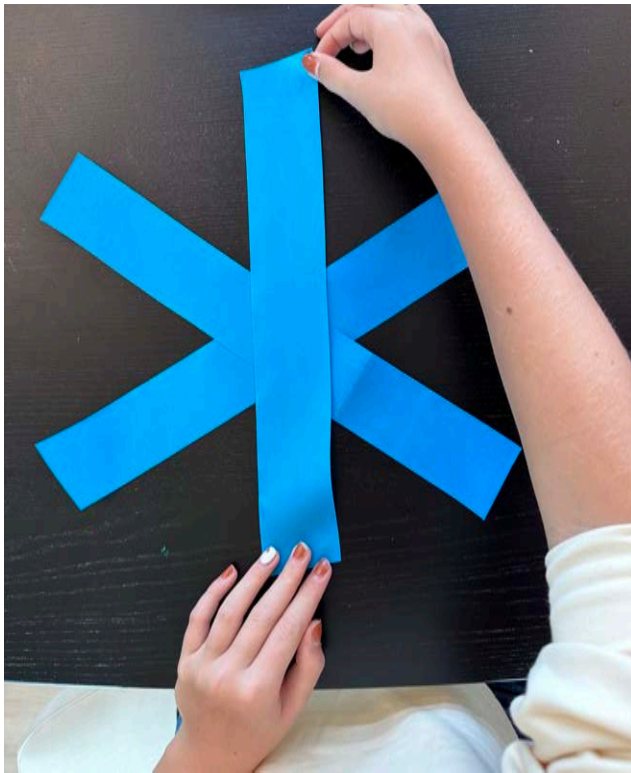

Below, you'll find various ways to connect with me, from my blog, social media, and TPT store, to my email sign-up (bottom right). Click on the squares below to explore all I have for you!

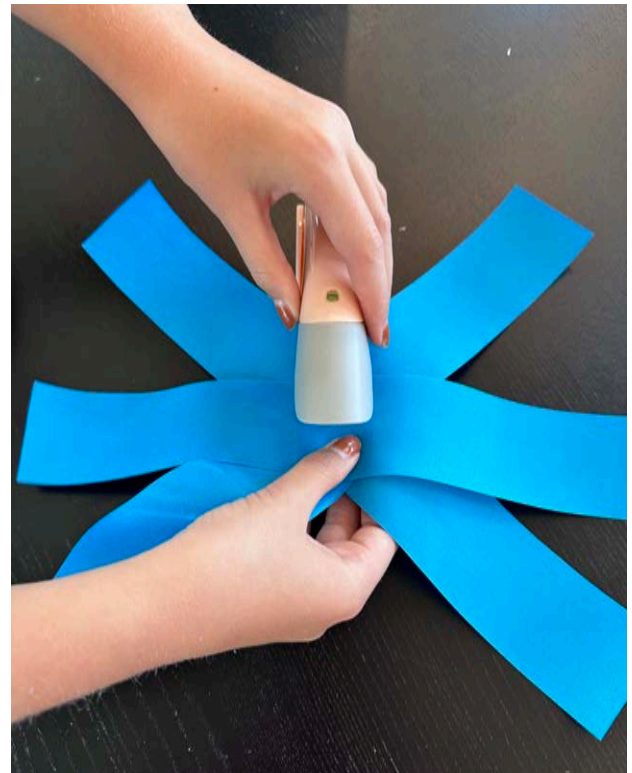

1

Make the top section of the ribbon.

To start, pick three pieces of ribbon (12"). They can be all the same color—or different!

Arrange pieces in a star shape and then staple the middle to hold the three pieces together.

Fold each end into the middle and then staple again to hold everything together.

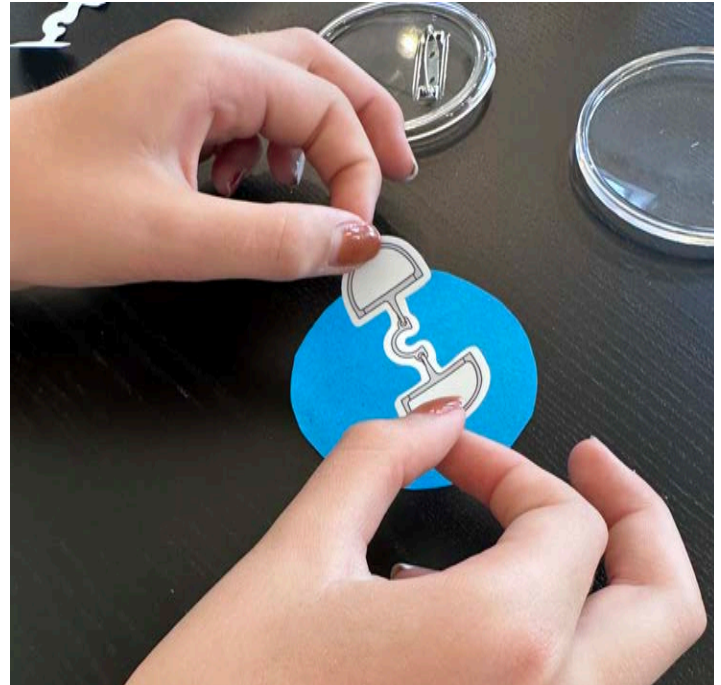

2

Make the button using stickers.

To start, pick a sticker that you like.

Remove the back of the sticker and place it on the circle construction paper inside of the button.

Replace the back of the button and pin it to your ribbon topper.

3

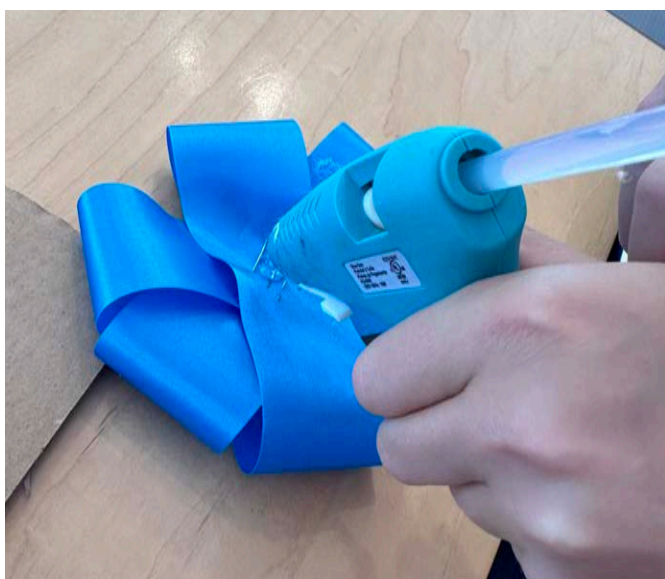

Finish by attaching the long ribbons.

To start, pick three long ribbons (24"). You'll need one thick, one thin, and one cord/string. Have fun with your colors!

Gather all three long ribbons (24" long) and fold them in half so there is 12" on each side. Then, with the help of an adult or older child, hot glue the ribbon to the back of the topper.

Then, with the help of an adult or older child (age 10+), hot glue the ribbon to the back of the topper.

4

Put it all together and trim!

To start, get a circle card stock back piece.

Then, with the help of an adult or older child (age 10+), hot glue the back piece to hold everything in place.

Finally, trim the ends of your ribbons to clean them up!

FROM ART WITH JENNY K.

You don't have to be an art teacher to infuse art into your classroom—you need to know one (and that's me!). Thank you for supporting my work and infusing your classroom with art!

If you are looking for more creativity-boosting art projects for your students, here is a list of some of my favorites. I have group and individual activities, making my time-saving resources great for classrooms, small groups, and kids at home! Click on each one to see more details.
